

THIRTIETH YEAR

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY AFTERNOON, FEBRUARY 19, 1920.

NUMBER 47.

JUDGE HARDIN

Will Not Be A Candidate.

ISSUES STATEMENT TO PUBLIC.

"In view of the prominence given my name in connection with the coming race for Congress in the Eighth Congressional District of this State, I think a statement from me is due at this time.

The substance of this statement may be put into a few words. I am not now and will not be a candidate for nomination at the coming Congressional election in the Eighth District of Kentucky by the Democratic party in said District. That I have not sought and am not seeking this nomination has for some time been well known by my closest personal friends. However, my reticence on this subject has been the occasion of receiving pledges in such numbers and assurances of such character as to lead me to believe that I would have no serious opposition in securing the nomination which, in my judgment and the opinion of my friends, would be equivalent to election.

I appreciate, beyond the power of words to express, the attitude toward me of many of the aspirants to this high office, the courtesies shown and the assurances given by them of a clear track, their good will and their support and service in the campaign, and which service and support I could not recognize as other than able, efficient and free-hearted. These expressions have given me a high sense of satisfaction and pleasure. I am under no less obligation to the voters in this Congressional District who, in large numbers, have pledged me their earnest support and influence. If in these things I failed to perceive the fine quality of greatness in my friends and sympathizers, I should be unworthy of them.

Some of my friends have insisted upon my candidacy as a matter of self-justification. But the State election which followed has fully vindicated me, and shown that any candidate would have fared as I did at that time. A comparison of my vote with that of the combined vote of all the Democratic candidates for Governor in the Eighth Congressional District will show that I obtained a larger vote than all of them. Besides all this, it is conceded that my defeat was not due to my personality at all, and that any candidate under the same circumstances would have fared as I did.

Moreover, in my former race for this position, I made Woodrow Wilson and his policies the issue of the campaign, and some of my friends have urged that I am the logical candidate to redeem the apparent, but not real, defeat of that issue. That issue, as I see it, is not dependent upon the personality of the candidate. Mr. Wilson, the statesman, and his policies, the proof of his statesmanship, will be the issue, or one of the issues, in the coming campaign, no matter who the candidate is, and I entertain no reasonable doubt of the result, freed, as this election will be, from the odor of state politics, political back-biting, selfish ambitions and the blight of a primary. That the Eighth Congressional District has men who are clean, capable, fearless; men who are loyal and true to the best traditions of the party; men whose honor, whose integrity, and whose truth are beyond price; men of trained minds and proved capacity, cannot be gainsaid. This is the kind of man demanded, and with such a nominee the result in this District will be safe beyond doubt.

When I made the race before, it was in vacation time. It was not then necessary that I should resign the office of Circuit Judge of the Thirteenth Judicial District. But if I should become a candidate for Congress in the coming election, it would be imperative that I should resign my present office, either before or after the election, and in either event the vacancy would be filled by an appointee of the present Republican Governor. I am not willing to sacrifice thus the interests of a Democratic constituency to whom I owe my present place of responsibility.

At this time, as Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, I am engaged with some high-minded patriots in extending our organization and composing its discordant elements. It is an earnest and unselfish movement looking to the interest of no individual, class or group, but to all, in redeeming Kentucky for Democracy. If all other reasons fail, I would cheerfully put aside personal ambition for this one, so that my motives at this time could not embarrass the work by being questioned.

MEMORIAL

SERVICES

For Garrard County's Heroes.

At Methodist Church Next Sunday Night.

Every young man from Garrard county who wore the Khaki in the late war should attend the memorial services that will be held at the Methodist church next Sunday night, given in honor of those boys who lost their lives while in the service of our country, during the late European war.

It is especially important that all the near kin of these heroes be present, as space will be reserved for them near the front of the church. This service will include the presentation of French Memorial Diplomas, sent here by the French Government, in honor of those boys who gave up their lives and the diplomas or honors will be presented to the next of kin on this occasion.

A delightful and entertaining program has been arranged for the evening, all the churches in the city taking some part. Rev. E. B. Hourland, of the Christian church will be the chief speaker.

LOCAL BALL

PLAYER

In The Limelight.

Last Sunday's Courier Journal contained a very good picture of Cliff Tatum, of Paint Lick, who has signed with the Louisville Baseball Club for the coming season.

In the "write up" the paper says: Here we have William Cliff Tatum, the pride of Paint Lick, Ky., and quite a well known twirler in Bluegrass semi-professional and amateur baseball circles, who will be among those present when Joe McCarthy calls the role at Mobile next month.

In a comparatively brief period young Tatum made rapid strides as a pitcher, and his record caused officials of the Louisville Club to give him a chance with the 1920 Colonels. Last season he played with the Paint Lick Blues and was defeated only twice, batted .400 and averaged fifteen strike-outs per game. In every game he played Louisville's latest phenom succeeded in making a hit. Last October he pitched a no-hit game against a team composed of Lexington and Nicholasville stars. In this game he struck out the first thirteen men facing him. Tatum is 22 years old, weighs 180 pounds striped, and stands five feet eleven inches in his stocking feet.

He may be a Walter Johnson, who can tell.

Anderson.

Col. Hall Anderson, many years ago served as postmaster in Lancaster, died at his home in Lincoln county last night and will be buried in the cemetery here tomorrow, (Friday) at 11:30 o'clock.

Col. Anderson was about 74 years old and leaves many old friends in this county who will regret to learn of his passing.

He is survived by his brother, Mr. John Anderson, of Lincoln and was an uncle of S. H. and Richard Anderson of this city.

unrest, however created and maintained, the relation of the United States to world affairs, with its manifold appeals, is a challenge to the highest and best in any man, and I confess that its opportunity for great service is difficult to turn down. I have an abiding faith that the Democratic party in the State and Nation is the party of constructive progress, as proven by past history, and the world must look to it to establish harmony among its warring elements and bring order out of confusion through the great and peaceable processes of the law. The hour appeals to me strongly, but after careful thought, and in view of the splendid talent in this District which may be summoned by the voice of the people, I have determined to turn whatever powers I possess to the problems near at hand, less ambitious, but useful, necessary and insistent.

CHAS. A. HARDIN.

MARKET TO CLOSE

February 27th. Will Be Last Sale.

The tobacco market in Garrard county and elsewhere will come to almost a sudden close as it started last December. The management of the Garrard Tobacco Warehouse are announcing in their large advertisement this week, that the market will close here on Friday February 27th.

It may be of interest to many to know that when it closes next week, over 4,000,000 pounds of burley tobacco has passed over its floors, which speaks well indeed for the first year.

Much headway is being made in the erection of another house in Lancaster before another season opens, as all concede that another house is just as important to take care of the increased acreage as it was to put up the first one.

One of the very best markets in Kentucky has now been established in Lancaster and it remains now to erect enough warehouses to take care of the business.

INCOME TAX MAN

To Be in Lancaster Next Monday.

Mr. Jephtha Onstott, a Garrard county boy, who has had two years experience in making out income tax returns, will be in Lancaster next Monday, February 23rd, and will remain until February 28th. Mr. Onstott is not connected with the government any more, having resigned his position several weeks ago. He made over five hundred returns last year, he tells us, and not a single one was returned for correction. He charges a small fee for his work, but will have the satisfaction that the return will be properly made out under his supervision. This should be worth something as it has been stated that over $40,000,000 was illegally collected last year from income taxes.

ABERDEEN-ANGUS

Thirty-Six Head Arrive For Bradshaw Bros.

Thirty-six head of as pretty bunch of Aberdeen-Angus cows and heifers, arrived here yesterday for Bradshaw Brothers as one ever sees outside of the great International show at Chicago. In fact some of these came direct from the International show, one cow with heifer calf by side being exceptionally fancy, for which these enterprising breeders had paid $2,500 for.

They came under the care of Mr. A. D. Bradshaw, who attended the great Chicago show, where he purchased most of the herd. These cattle will be groomed for their next annual auction sale which will take place in the early spring.

Judge Ralph Gilbert, Announces for Congress.

In this issue of the Record we are carrying the formal announcement of Judge Ralph Gilbert, of Shelbyville, for Congress, subject to the Democratic primary to be held on August 7th, 1920.

With the article is a clipping from the Shelbyville News, which is very interesting and well worth reading. Judge Gilbert is a son of the late George G. Gilbert, who represented this district in Congress in 1898, he having redeemed it from republican rule in that year. Judge Gilbert is well known here and has friends who will work for him thru the primary and who say he would carry the district by a handsome majority in the final election.

A Loss To Old Friends.

The death of Mrs. Sophia Dunn, which occurred in Danville last week, is felt by friends in this, her native county, where she was born in 1848 and lived nearly all her life—being a daughter of Benjamin and Mary Bright Robinson.

Devotion to her home and family, where a beautiful hospitality reigned, was one of her many admirable attributes. Every call upon her sympathy was answered with generous giving of her best endeavor. The sympathy of all are with her children for their loneliness and grief at the sad parting.

CHAIRMAN

Of Road Organization,

Calls Meeting For Monday after-NOON.

Editor Central Record:—

Now that we are to vote on a bond issue, the proceeds of the bonds to be used in constructing a permanent road through the county, I feel that every voter should at once acquaint himself of all the facts concerning this proposition; and if they will do so there is no doubt but that the good road will be built.

The Record has had some good columns on this subject, but I think we should all get together at the Court House next Monday and talk this over.

I believe that this is Garrard County's REAL BIG opportunity to have better roads. In a nut shell—by voting these bonds we can build a permanent road and the cost to us will be less than one half of its real cost, by accepting the Federal and State proposition.

By doing this we would release thousands of dollars for use on other roads, for every dollar that is furnished by the state or the Federal Government, would be just that much saved to Garrard county.

To do otherwise than accept the Federal and state aid, would be very unwise to say the least.

Be sure and come to the Court House, MONDAY FEB. 23rd, at ONE O'CLOCK.

Yours for Better Roads, W. F. CHAMP.

MASONIC PROGRAM

Carried Out to The Letter Last Friday.

Lancaster was teeming over with Masonic brothers last Friday afternoon and night, having met here to initiate thirteen candidates into the Master's Degree of this splendid order.

Several big guns of the order were here from a distance, the names we gave in our last issue.

The bounteous dinner served by the ladies of the "Circle Girls" club has been complimented highly by all who were so fortunate to have been there, a feature which added much pleasure to the entertainment of the day. About 110 Masons participated.

Papers Wanted.

We are anxious for several copies of last week's issue of the Central Record. Won't some of our good subscribers kindly come to our rescue. February 12th is the issue we want.

Held to Grand Jury.

Kinnaird Leavell was brought before Judge Stapp last week charged with stealing an automobile. The evidence was conclusive and he was held over under a bond of $150, which he couldn't give and was sent to jail.

Col. Frank Ripy Here.

Col. Frank Ripy, of Lawrenceburg, was in the city yesterday shaking hands with his friends and feeling the pulse of the people regarding his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress from this district, subject to the primary to be held next August. When asked as to his candidacy, he said his hat was in the ring and his formal announcement would be made in a few days.

Col. Ripy has many friends in the county, who will be pleased to see him succeed Hon. King Swope, the present Republican incumbent.

Good Roads Meeting Monday.

Mr. Champ and his Committee on Good Roads for this county have arranged an interesting program for the big meeting at the Court House, Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The following are on the program for talks:

W. F. Champ, Judge Stapp, J. E. Robinson, B. F. Hudson, R. B. Ledford, H. V. Bastin, Rev. B. A. Dawes, all local speakers, and Mr. J. L. Durham, of Greensburg, Ky., who has done more work than any other person in securing this Federal road through this locality. He makes a good road talk. This meeting is in the interest of the Bonds. All the voters of this county should attend this meeting to hear the question discussed.

"TROUBLES OF A MERCHANT"

"And How To Stop Them".

Every successful merchant in business at the present time is utilizing every means possible to help him advance and build up a better trade. Realizing this the Central Record has secured one of the most instructive, educational moving picture ever put on the screen, entitled "The Troubles of a Merchant and How To Stop Them."

The picture will be shown at the Court House tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. W. H. Farley will lecture with the pictures. By aid of stereopticon slides, he will deal with the following subjects:

1. Retail failures and their causes
2. Store organization.
3. Newspaper advertising.
4. Window Display.
5. Clerks' efficiency.
6. Selling Methods.
7. Credit Business.
8. System in Retail Business.

This lecture was secured through the courtesy of The National Cash Register Company, of Dayton, Ohio. It has received the highest commendation from business organizations wherever it has been shown.

There will be no charge for admission and every business man and clerk in the city should take advantage of this unusual offer.

FILMS ADVANCING

Picture Shows Raising Admissions.

With the heavy increase in the price of films, it has begun to look as if some of the smaller houses in picture show business especially in the smaller towns will have to go out of business, unless the present admission of them are considerably advanced. Mr. Romans tells us that he made more money from his opera house when the admission was 5 and 10 cents than he is now doing with his present prices of twenty cents.

FORMER GARRARD CITIZEN

Honored On His Eightieth Birthday.

The Washington, Ind., Herald has the following notice about a former Garrard citizen, many of whom remember him well, chief among his friends here being Mr. J. W. Punphrey. Mr. Ramsey is an ardent reader of the Central Record and has been ever since he left Kentucky. He keeps up with local events in this way and we number him among our best friends and wish for him many more years of pleasure and happiness.

The Herald says: You would never guess it but James W. Ramsey, former city councilman, was eighty years old yesterday. In honor of the anniversary, his son, James, 212 Northeast Ninth street, entertained with a family dinner.

No one present enjoyed the event any more than the guest of honor. He is a spry as a man many years his junior. His mind is as keen as a new razor and fewer citizens keep in closer touch with current events than he. Mr. Ramsey is a native of Kentucky, but has been living in Washington for more than forty years, being in the contracting business and erected many of the city's business as well as residential structures. He is a veteran of the union army and a member of the G. A. R. post.

DEDICATION OF DIXIE HIGHWAY

Road To Be Scene of Celebration By Automobile Clubs.

The Dixie Highway Association is at work on details of the dedication of the highway between Michigan and Florida which will take place some time during the late summer or the early fall. The reports received from the sections of Kentucky and Tennessee and from Southern Georgia and Northern Florida of progress being made on construction, of contracts awarded, and of the financial arrangements made to start work in the early spring, prompt the officials of the association to believe that the highway will be opened for all year round travel by fall of this year.

The place of the dedication exercise and the route to be dedicated will depend on which route is the first to be placed in good traveling condition. A disinterested committee selected from the leading motor clubs of the country will cover both the eastern and western divisions of the Dixie Highway between the Ohio river and the Georgia line in advance of the dedication and the route and place of dedication will be selected by them.

Leading motor clubs along the highway are showing their interest in the opening of the Dixie Highway by starting preparations for their participation in the dedication. Plans of the Chicago Motor Club are probably further advanced than any other organization. The dedication has been endorsed by the membership of the club, by the Chicago Boosters' Club and Mayor Thompson of Chicago. Over 200 cars from the Chicago city have been pledged to make the run to the point of dedication. Arrangements have been made with a large tent and awning concern to provide a tent city for the Chicago motorists at each night control. They will bring with them three or more Government trucks equipped with demonstration wireless telephone and telegraph equipment.

FAVORS

BOND ISSUE

And Gives Good Reason why Road Should Be Built.

Paint Lick, Ky., Feb. 17, 1920.

The Central Record:— You have asked for the citizens of Garrard County to express themselves on the Bond Issue for the Federal Highway, or in other words, "Do we want better roads for less money?"

Our roads are the arteries of trade and commerce, and is the making or unmaking of our county, and this being the case, I have my first man to see that opposes this Bond Issue.

Over and above all else, let our different county administrations give us good roads and good schools and when these two things are a living reality, you will see people wanting to come to Garrard county, and will see none that wants to leave.

When we consider better roads with no increase of taxation, why shouldn't we be in favor of it?

The Federal Government wants to give us $200,000.00 to be expended on our main pike leading through the county. If we don't get this money, this same IDENTICAL pike must be kept up with County funds, but if we vote these Bonds and pay our 40 or 45 per cent of this cost, then the road money is released, to apply on all side pikes, that otherwise would have to be expended on the main pike.

And then again, the word "Federal" when coupled to our road, is sufficient guarantee that this road will be not only BUILT, but will be KEPT UP. Let one and all, work together for this road, and let no one be found pulling back.

Bourne and Cox purchased recently, several nice horses ranging in price from $100 to $150, and a pair of mules of Holman Brown for $440.

LIVE STOCK

SHIP CATTLE FROM MONTANA

Estimated That Between 500,000 and 600,000 Head Have Been Shipped Out of State.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture

An unusually large movement of cattle out of Montana has taken place in 1919, according to the Bureau of Animal Industry. Normally, the movement of cattle from this state is between 200,000 and 300,000 head annually. It is estimated that between 500,000 and 600,000 have been shipped out for all purposes. Figures are not available for a similar comparison in regard to sheep, but reports from representatives of the department in the field indicate that between 400,000 and 500,000 sheep of all classes of range stock were moved out of the Northwest for feeding and grazing in sections east and west of the drought area.

These animals went first into the available nearby pasture lands in the Dakotas and Nebraska. Later they were moved into the middle cornbelt states, into Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the upper peninsula of Michigan, and still later into Texas and New Mexico. The movement into the two latter states continued on into November. The heavy snowfall that occurred early in the season overtook some ranchmen who were taking chances on the weather and they found it necessary to move their herds quickly. It is thought that enough railroad cars were made available to fill all orders. Stock men moving west were given preference over dead freight.

Information that has reached the department indicates that the movement of cattle into New Mexico and Texas has been satisfactory, and with certain exceptions, the same holds true with respect to Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Reports indicate that a considerable movement of sheep and cattle into Michigan and nearby territory for summer grazing is likely in future years. Feed supplies in the Northwest appear to be adequate for live stock remaining on the ranges and there is now no expectation of serious shortage.

PROVIDE SHELTER FOR SHEEP

Exposure to Wind and Storms is Cause of Much Loss—Protection Is Not Costly.

Great sheep losses come through exposure to wind and storm. In all parts of the country farms that have sheep on them will do well to provide shelter from bad weather. These do not cost so much as to have the sheep die in the cold and wet. If we had all the money that is lost in sheep in any one year through exposure to storm we would be far richer than we are.

PROFIT FROM BABY BEEVES

Farmer With Pasture Land Could Raise Few Without Great Expense—Grain Needed.

Every farmer who has pasture land could raise a few baby calves profitably without great expense. In addition to the pasture a silo will be needed and a single crop. It may be advisable in addition to plant soiling crops to supplement the silage and pasture. Some hay should be available and enough grain to finish the calves for market.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Send the scrub does to the butcher's block.

The water supply is of paramount importance in raising animals.

Pigs grow very fast when they have pasture and some grain as a supplement.

Beef cattle are able to convert coarse feeds such as hay, stover and silage into meat.

For a general farmer who raises animals and grows diversified crops a silo is almost indispensable.

Beef, pork, milk or mutton can be produced more economically by good pastures than by any other means.

Now friends for the sake of God and humanity and to save the starving, hungry nation unsolicited you join this club today.

Makes Sure of Victim's Death.

Though the elephant's eyesight is poor, his hearing and sense of smell are acute, and he covers about 12 feet in one stride. When he grips his victim in his trunk he crushes him to the ground. Then, if he has tusks, he jabs great holes through his body. Whereat he kneels on his victim. Then he wheels ponderously and sits on the body, rolling his tremendous availing pods back and forth, utterly squashing it. Finally he stamps on it, battering it into the ground.—Exchange.

$20,000 Asked To Provide For State's Historical Work.

Seeking continuance for two years for the sole purpose of gathering and preserving Kentucky war records, the Kentucky Council of Defense will ask the General Assembly for $20,000 appropriation for the State body and $100 for each county, according to the terms of a bill to be presented this week.

Work proposed by the State Historian, Fred P. Caldwell, Louisville, includes a record of Kentucky's 100,000 men and women who served during the war, a history of all State-wide war activities and civilian organizations and a narrative of all divisions in which Kentuckians served in large numbers.

To accomplish this end two years will be necessary, according to Mr. Caldwell, who pointed out that only in about twelve of the 120 counties in the State are the records near completion.

"We must not fail to complete our record of the men who died in the service," said Mr. Caldwell, "of those who were wounded and those who won special honors."

The records now show 2,898 men and women who lost their lives, about 4,000 others wounded and gassed and about 400 who won special honors.

Assistance of Federal authorities in such a task is assured, as the result of an act passed last July providing that service records of all soldiers shall be copied by the Adjutant General of each State. The Council of Defense proposes to copy these records in duplicate, retaining one at State headquarters and sending the other to the proper county.

Some of the items in the $20,000 proposed appropriation, which covers two years, are:

Salary of State Historian, $6,000; printing service records and copying them, $2,800; histories of camps and Kentucky divisions, $2,300.

In regard to the proposed compensation of $100 to each county historian, Mr. Caldwell said:

"The patriotic men and women who are serving as county war historians deserve the highest praise. They have given freely of their time and energies to the work. Many of them have even given their own funds for postage and stationery. It seems only right and just that some financial assistance be given them for their splendid work."

The Indiana Legislature has appropriated $20,000 a year for four years while Ohio has given $25,000 as a fund to start with.

In all there are at least thirty-eight States now actively engaged in compiling war histories.

Each Day of This Year You Will Find In The Herald

All the local, state, country and foreign news that can be obtained by the Associated Press, the Universal News Service, our special correspondents and our local staff; news when it is news; news when it is true, not otherwise. No other newspaper can give you more; very few newspapers will give you as much.

The Associated Press wires will furnish us with all the news of the United States and Europe, the European news will be supplemented by special cables from all the European capitals, by the Universal News Service. Our special correspondents will furnish us with news from the state, and our local staff will gather all the news of the city of Louisville.

So that you may be sure in reading the Louisville Herald, that any event, whether it occurs in Kamchatka or in Kalanuzoo, if it has news interest, it will be in your newspaper.

The Louisville Herald, while it prides itself on being, primarily, a newspaper, realizes that there is more in life than occurrences that are of news value. People wish to be amused, instructed and entertained as well, and the Louisville Herald has spared no expense to do these very things for its readers. Its slogan is something of interest for every member of the family.

Mother and the girls will naturally enjoy the whole newspaper, but there are a few special features that are written for the women folks alone that we are sure they will find not only interesting but instructive in many instances.

The society notes will be of interest to many; the daily fiction will interest many more, and it should, as some of our best authors are preparing it. There are very few women who will not get something of real value from Cynthia Grey's column, whether it is a matter of advice, a cooking recipe, ideas as to entertaining, or any of the countless things that one wishes to know about. Simply write Cynthia Grey and she will gladly give you her aid in solving your problem.

Then there is a daily series of editorials on things of particular interest to women by Charlotte Gilman Perkins; a daily installment of that interesting serial "Confessions of a Bride," Edgar A. Guest's daily poem "Just Folks," which makes such a wonderful appeal to all lovers of good poetry, and last, but far from least, the pleasure that women get in reading the advertising and the savings they also make in taking advantage of the various sales.

For the male members of the family we offer what we consider as good an editorial page as can be found anywhere. There the current events of the day, their cause and effect are touched upon by the trenchant pens of our editorial staff to the delight and edification of all our readers.

The financial page will give the current quotations on all stocks and bonds; the latest quotations on grain, cotton, produce, live stock, tobacco, oil and every commodity that is listed on the exchange. The modern man can not do business these days without the financial page of a metropolitan newspaper. Neither can the ordinary male citizen get along without the sporting news of the day, and in The Herald he will find, unqualifiedly, the best sport page published in Kentucky.

Every member of the family will enjoy the cartoons, particularly "Bringing Up Father," "the Conning Tower," by F. P. A.; "New York Day By Day," by McIntyre; the interesting articles by Frederic A. Haskin and the daily dramatic and movie criticisms.

There will be other features in The Herald from time to time, but the above are the regular features that you are sure of each day of the year in your Herald. Do you know of any newspaper that offers more? We doubt if you know of any newspaper that gives you nearly as much; a year's happiness for every member of the family, and all for five dollars.

If you are unfamiliar with The Herald we will gladly send you a sample copy. We would suggest that you send in your subscription now, and thus protect yourself for the coming year against a possible raise in subscription rates. Give your subscription to your local agent now. HORACE MADE GOOD

By MABEL E. BRIGHTMAN

Copyright, 1919, by Mabel E. Brightman

"All ready for the sleigh ride boys and girls," piped Jones, as he entered the schoolroom. "All here and ready but Sally Hicks and she is always late," spoke a chorus of voices, that surrounded the little country school room stove.

Sally was a bright-eyed little girl of sixteen, with cheeks like roses and hair that fell on her shoulders in golden curls. Her drive to school each morning was far from short, but Sally felt she wanted to go and must go home and put on her new brown coat and knitted red cap, that her aunt Johanna had sent her for her birthday the day before. Paul Rice, the youngest trustee of the school was going and she must look her very best.

"What is the matter and this hurry, my dear?" spoke Sally's mother looking over her spectacles, as Sally rushed into the kitchen. "Oh, nothing much, mother, only Horace has invited me to ride in that horrid looking sleigh. I just hate old fashion sleighs and old fashion people anyway," spluttered Sally. "But then—I suppose I will have to go, as he has been so good to father since his illness."

Two o'clock came and Horace drove up in front of Sally's door, well protected from the winter's cold by his red scarf securely wrapped around his head, and his fine looking sleigh, as he supposed.

"Ready, Sally," shouted Horace in a hoarse voice, from the sleigh.

The drive to the little red school seemed long to Sally, as her thoughts were all on seeing Paul Rice, the sleigh ride, the lovely supper at Nancy Binkes and not on the question that Horace had asked.

Well—and just then Sally, jumping from the sleigh, forgot to even thank Horace, but he was soon tucked in and on his way home.

"Where have you been the last hour, Sally Hicks?" shouted a voice from the corner, "we want to get started."

Sally was cold after her long drive and stood by the stove warming her little white hands, first looking at Paul, who stood nearby polishing his fingernails, and thinking of the boy who had brought her safely there and gone.

"Well, I don't care anyway," she thought to herself, "I never did like old fashion people and never will."

Sure to say Horace was the object of her thoughts, and offender in comparison with Paul, the highly polished gentleman, who stood by the stove.

"We must get started now, boys and girls."

Paul helped Sally on with her coat and assisted her to the sleigh and they were soon cuddled together in the corner of the hay-bottom sleigh chatting and laughing.

After the toasts at Nancy's class supper the boys one by one told of some great adventure in their lives and Paul's tales of his life of adventures held little Sally awestruck, while the others were amused.

"The storm is growing worse, we must get started."

Paul calling Sally to one side whispered in her ear in a gentle voice, "We will go back in Mr. Blake's new red sleigh, it will be much safer and besides, Sally, it looks a lot nicer."

They had only gone a short distance and they came to the turn in the road when the horse jumped, and Paul became angry and lashed the horse, the blinding drift of the new fallen snow and the angry lashes of Paul frightened the horse, the sleigh overturned, and poor Sally lay helpless by the side of the road.

"Hurry! Sally come yet," Horace exclaimed as he walked into the cozy sitting room of Mrs. Hicks' home. "Jack and all the rest have arrived."

"It is a bad night and I think it right for me to follow the broken road to Nancy Binkes," Horace said, in a deep voice.

In a short time Mrs. Hicks had Horace well supplied with coats and shawls and started over the road to Nancy Binkes.

"Tilt up, Dobbins, we must meet Sally," Horace exclaimed to his faithful old white horse. The sleigh glided over the fleece-like snow and Horace had gone six miles when a terrible sight confronted him as he came to turn in the road. There lay the girl of his dreams unconscious in the snow.

"Sally, Sally, can't you speak?" And picking her up in his arms he placed her gently beside him in the old fashioned sleigh.

The cold sharp wind of the winter's night brought Sally to consciousness and as she looked up into Horace's honest blue eyes she placed her tiny white arms around his neck and exclaimed, "You are the true hero of my dreams."

Plea for Next Summer's Garden.

At least 100,000,000 people in Europe are in danger of starvation in the next few months, according to Sir George Paish. Speaking before the Ethical society in London he declared that although the world had not fully realized the situation business men and bankers had done so and were getting together to devise remedial measures. Selfish and unselfish interests were coincident. This means that America again must do her share in keeping the world from starvation. Plan now to have a better garden than ever next season.—New York Sun.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce RALPH GILBERT, of Shelby county, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky, State Primary Election, Saturday, August 7, 1920.

GOOD FELLOWS IN OFFICE.

We in this country have gradually dropped into the habit of electing good fellows to public office.

If they are possessed of some slight qualifications, we are fortunate. If they are without qualifications, we elect them any way—because they are "good fellows".

The professional politician is invariably a "good fellow". It is part of his stock in trade. It is necessary that he be such in order to succeed.

Because of this you find our public offices filled with professional politicians.

The young fellow with political ambition goes out after some small office, and because he is pleasant and agreeable, a good talker and bunk slinger, we give it to him.

Next he fixes his eye on an office a little higher up, and because he has proven himself a "good fellow" in the small one we give him the next one.

Then the state legislature, and even congress, offer attractions to his ambitious mind.

We have come to know him well, have smoked his cigars at election time, have admired his democracy in kissing the kids, have accepted his blarney at face value, and again we give him his heart's desire—because, you know, he's a "real fellow."

In the state capitol, or in Washington, the "good fellow" meets other "good fellows"—fellows who do not hold public office, but who do hold the power of materially advancing the personal interests of the new legislator "if he is a good Indian."

But there we draw the veil. You know the sordid story by heart—the story of capitalistic intrigue and domination at the expense of the people, of the blighted hopes of honest constituents, of the betrayal of public trust.

Too often it is seen in this country, because in the beginning we were soft hearted and easy and believed in the honeyed words and worthless promises of a "good fellow."

These are troublous times, and we need something more than "good fellows" in our offices of public trust.

We need statesmanship capable of reconstructing the scrambled and battered fabric of our body politic.

We need honor and brains instead of political sagacity.

But we reap only as we sow.

PICK UP THE LOOSE ENDS.

With the advent of spring there is much for our municipal authorities to consider.

A careful scrutiny of this town will disclose abundant food for thought—and action. Unsightly conditions will be found, streets are in need of repairs, broken pavements require attention, and a few low places should be filled in.

A public rest room should be provided for the benefit of our friends from the country who may want to while away an hour or two before returning to their homes.

There should be a homelike air of hospitality pervading this town which would cause people to want to come again and come often. People from the country should be made to feel that this is their town as well as ours.

We can do these things, if we will—and it costs little but means much.

We suggest that our honorable city dads take a few hours off and exercise their legs. A tramp around town might prove both illuminating and instructive.

There is, it seems, a difference in the degree of thievery. If a man swipes your horse, or your diamonds, or even your "wad", he is just a mangy thief. But if he walks away with your booze he at once becomes a monstrosity and a public menace.

But now, however, prices are regulated entirely by the law of supply and demand—the "demand" of the profiteer.

JUDGE RALPH GILBERT

ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS.

Well Known Shelby County Democrat Enters Race For Position Now Held by Republican.

RALPH GILBERT.

Democrats of Garrard County will be interested this morning to learn of the announcement of Judge Ralph Gilbert, of Shelby County, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky, in the State Primary Election to be held Saturday, August 7, 1920.

Judge Gilbert's candidacy comes as a response to a fast growing demand from Democrats all over the district for a new man to offer for Congress who is fresh from the people—a man who has the ability and the energy to make a vigorous campaign and carry the fight to the Republicans—a man who has never known defeat.

Judge Gilbert is such a man. He is not only a successful lawyer, but he possesses the business qualifications and that admirable energy so necessary in the making of a Congressman of the first rank. He has only held one public office—that of County Judge of Shelby County—which position he filled for eight years with satisfaction to the entire citizenship.

A forceful speaker and an aggressive campaigner, Judge Gilbert, if honored with the Democratic nomination, can be depended upon to redeem the district from Republican control, as it was redeemed before by his father, the late George G. Gilbert, back in 1898, which was the only other time it was ever represented by a Republican.

Judge Gilbert expects to meet and speak to the Democrats of Garrard county as the campaign gets under way and in the meantime he will appreciate a careful consideration of his candidacy at your hands.—Shelbyville News.

Burton.

Mr. James B. Burton died at his home near Buckeye last Tuesday after a short illness. He was a brother of "Squire" Burton and an uncle of Messrs W. B. R. L. and R. I. Burton of this county.

He was buried at the family burial ground yesterday after appropriate services at the grave.

Alexander.

After an illness of only a few days, Mrs. Wilson Alexander died at her home near Hubble Tuesday night, of pneumonia, following a case of influenza. Her death is indeed a shock to her family and friends, who have the sympathy of the community in learning of her passing. She is survived by her husband and one child. She was a sister of Mr. Robert Shearer of this county.

Sutton.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Sutton have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of their daughter, Nannie B. Sutton, who passed away at their home on the Buckeye pike last Saturday, February 14th.

As she was sick only a few days, her rather sudden death came as quite a shock to the entire family. Although she had been an invalid since early childhood and a constant sufferer, she bore her afflictions without a murmur and was the idol of her parents, whose devotion and attentions showered upon her, were pathetically beautiful. She was in her twenty-second year, having been born February 1st, 1898.

The funeral services were conducted at the grave last Sunday afternoon where the frail body was laid to rest beneath a mound of flowers sent by devoted friends and loved ones. "A precious one from you has gone, The voice you loved is stilled, A place is vacant in your home, Which never can be filled."

Tribute To Mrs. Dunn.

Mrs. Sophia Robinson Dunn entered life eternal February 12th—all that medical skill, and the loving ministrations of the devoted family were hers, but the loving, useful life came to its close. "In my Father's house are many mansions." Some one has said the mansions in heaven are built with the material furnished from earth, the good deeds, the kind words, the loving kindness shown.

If this be true, our dear friend's mansion will have a foundation of unselfishness, the walls will be loving kindness, and the whole structure will be interwoven with beautiful flowers, flowers of sympathy, charity, and cheerfulness she scattered here, whose perfume and memory will live long in the hearts of her friends.

Sophia Robinson gave her heart to God in early life and has been always a consistent Christian. Her life was a sweet benediction to those who came in contact with her.

"What Thou hast given, Thou canst take,
And when Thou wilt new gifts can make."

All flows from Thee alone;
When Thou didst give it, it was Thine,
When Thou retook'st it, it was not mine.

Thy will in all be done."
—FROM ONE WHO LOVES HER.

CARD OF THANKS.

I shall always remember with sincere gratefulness the kindness shown, and words of sympathy expressed by my friends in the loss of my wife, and take this means of thanking you all.

T. J. Price.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere gratitude for the many kindnesses shown during the illness and death of our devoted daughter. We wish especially to thank Mr. Beasley for his thoughtfulness and kindness.

Reynolds.

Mr. James Reynolds, of near Newby, Madison county, died at his home Friday morning, Feb. 6th, about nine o'clock, of paralysis. He was stricken Thursday afternoon while he was out attending to his stock and as he didn't return, his wife went to see about him, and found him down. He had struggled about fifty feet from where he fell and the neighbors were quickly summoned and he was carried to the house, and he died the following morning.

Mr. Reynolds was a son of the late Levi and Rachel Reynolds, who preceded him to the grave about twenty years ago. If he had lived until the sixth of June he would have been 69 years of age. Seventeen years ago he was married to Miss Diana Perkins. Since that time he has lived in Madison county where he has made many friends and they are grieved at his sudden passing away. He was a good christian man, becoming a member of the Freedom Baptist church in early boyhood and lived up to his confession.

He leaves to mourn his loss a devoted wife and four nephews, James, Thomas and Trave Hume, all of this county and Henry Hume of Madison county.

After funeral services at the home the remains were taken to the little Bethel Church yard and laid to rest. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved one who is left alone. May God comfort her in her dark hour of trial. "Gently the stars are beaming."

Upon a silent grave,
There lies our uncle Jimmie sleeping,
The one we loved but could not save.

Scott-Center.

A wedding which will be of much interest to the many friends of Miss Nannie Frances Scott, and Mr. Ernest Martin Center, took place at Danville Kentucky, on Wednesday afternoon, February 11th, 1920, at the home of Rev. Smith, minister of the Christian church of that city.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. James A. Scott, of this county and a lovely and accomplished young woman. She was beautiful in a modish spring suit of brown wool jersey with hat, furs and shoes to match.

The groom is a prominent young farmer of this county who was in the service of "Uncle Sam" for two years, spending one and a half years "over there" and 98 days under the fire of the Germans. He took active part in the battle of San Michel and Argonne Forest. During the latter engagement he received a wound from shrapnel, which caused him considerable pain and worry but from which he has now recovered.

They were accompanied to Danville by Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Ralston, (nee, Miss Eva Scott), bride and groom of December 20, brother-in-law and sister of the bride.

After a few days stay at the "Gilder" they returned to the home of her father on the Lexington Road.

CROSS PURPOSES

By GRACE E. RILEY.

"It is hard for you to leave my mother all the time; but it is also hard for me to have yours, dear, don't forget that."

"Oh, I don't forget Dan; I forget nothing connected with the whole affair. I only wish I could. It wouldn't be so hard if they did not quarrel so; and it isn't because they are tired as I am. I don't let them lift a finger. They offer from time to time, but the poor dears had their years of labor and deserve to rest now."

"Perhaps they would be happier if they did work, Jane," suggested her husband.

"Oh, you don't know what you're talking about!" Jane answered with irritation.

A year before her mother, Mrs. James, had decided to live with her married daughter. Mrs. James was right, of course; Mrs. James was always right. Six months later Dan had seen that it was necessary to have his mother, too, for she was failing in strength and needed her only son near her. From that day small irritations, endless arguments and tiresome discussions had changed the harmonious atmosphere of the once happy Harrington home, and Jane was finding it almost more than she could bear.

When Dan awoke the next morning he was surprised to see that Jane was still sleeping—Jane, who usually awoke early, prepared breakfast and then called him—and the clock hands mercilessly pointed to eight o'clock.

"Jane!" Jane stirred restlessly, but did not awaken.

"Jane!" Dan spoke again. "Hill, it's after eight o'clock." This time Jane opened her eyes. "What's the matter, Jane? Look how late it is!" And Jane awoke—awoke to an understanding of the hour; to the fact that she had overslept and that Dan was late; but more alert to the pain in her back and head than to anything else.

"I guess I'm sick, Dan; you'll have to call mother."

Dan was quickly out of bed and downstairs, tapping at Mrs. James' door.

"What is it?"

"Jane's sick—will you come upstairs as soon as you can?"

Then he went to his mother's room. "Mother," he said, "Jane is sick, her mother is going to her. Will you get me some breakfast while I go for the doctor?"

"Why, certainly, Dannie, I'll be right down." The thought flashed through Dan's mind that not for years had he heard his mother speak so cheerfully; but he could give no more thought to this now—there was much to be done. Crossing hastily, he went for Doctor Meade, who returned with him and gave Jane a thorough examination.

"She is certainly a very sick girl, but nothing dangerous, I think. Evidently a complete nervous breakdown, and she must have absolute rest and quiet."

"Had I better remain at home, doctor?"

"Better not; far better not," said the lanky doctor, as he piled small stacks of pink and white and red pills on the dressing table.

Downstairs, Mrs. Harrington had prepared not only a tempting breakfast for Mrs. James and Dan, but had a tray ready to take up to Jane.

"Brace up, Dannie, we will bring her back to health before you know she's sick, son." A wealth of love and tenderness was in her tone, and Dan could scarcely believe his ears.

"Thanks, mother—and just be a little patient with Mrs. James, won't you? It worries on Jane frightfully to hear you two argue."

"Dan's sake, son! We don't mean anything by our arguing—why, I think a heap of Mrs. James; and anyway, we will be too busy today, I reckon, for arguments."

Here Mrs. James put in an appearance looking frail and anxious.

"Now, Mathilde James, don't you worry a mile—the doctor told me Jane would be all right with you to nurse her," said Mrs. Harrington, as she drew her friend and enemy into a chair before the table.

"Did he say so, Mary? But who will do the housework?"

"Goodness, me, Mathilde, don't you reckon I have still strength enough to wield a dishcloth?" sniffed Mrs. Harrington with fire in her eye. But of a sudden the fire disappeared. "Guess you and me, between us, Mathilde, can keep the house clean and take care of Jane, too, can't we?"

"You're a good woman, Mary Harrington—and I've always said so—though you have got a frightful temper," said Mathilde James, stopping to kiss Mary as she carried a pile of dishes to the kitchen.

During that day and those that followed, the two old ladies lived peacefully together, vying with one another in cooking, nursing and cleaning. Their minds were so occupied that there was no room for petty disagreements, gradually was borne in upon Jane the realization that the keynote of the present harmony lay in the joy of the mothers in the round of duties with which they were daily confronted.

"We were all working at cross-purposes, Dan—but I've learned my lesson," she confidently informed her husband one evening.

"It takes you, dear, always to find the right way in the end," her husband lovingly assured her.

"A blizzard?
We should worry!"

WIDE AWAKE AND ACTIVE IC CLAIM OF LETTER MAN.

Says He Performs Duties with Renewed vim
because of Trutona.

Howling Green, Ky., Feb. 18th.—
"I'm wide awake and active and readily feel like working; seems as though I'm able to perform my duties with a new vim since taking Trutona," C. W. Howerton, a well known letter carrier here who lives at 106 Fourteenth Street, said a few days ago.

"I hadn't been feeling well and I was afraid to lag along as 'flu' time was drawing near," Mr. Howerton continued. "My digestion was poor and although I slept well, my sleep didn't seem to be restful as I usually felt lifeless, tired and draggy.
My liver and kidneys weren't acting normally either. I felt drowsy and sleepy most all day.

"After several of my neighbors had spoken to me about Trutona I finally decided to try the medicine.
As I just said I can perform my duties with a new vim since taking Trutona. I'm wide awake and active and feel more like working, it seems. Trutona gave me quicker relief than any other tonic I have ever taken and because of the quick thorough benefits I have gained through it I am glad to recommend this medicine."

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Lancaster, at Mc-Robert's Drug Store.

HOOVER BOOM For The Presidency Rapidly Gaining Ground.

Politicians are left gasping at the astounding stroke of the loyal Democratic and Wilsonian New York World, in coming out flatly in a two and a half column editorial for Herbert C. Hoover for President on either a Democratic, Progressive, Independent, or Republican platform.
"In point of ability, in point of experience, in point of capacity to deal comprehensively with the new problems of reconstruction, Mr. Hoover stands above all the candidates who have been brought into the contest," asserts The World, and finds scores of widely separated newspapers, Republican and Democratic alike, which agree fully in this and other statements made in The World's astonishing editorial. Criticism of Mr.
Hoover's abilities as an administrator is conspicuous by its absence. Some might find fault with his comparative inexperience as a politician, but, as The World and other newspapers say, the "public is tired of professional politicians."

Hoover's unique role in the Presidential race "embarrasses the politicians of the Democratic and Republican parties, and delights the formerly helpless general public," gleefully asserts the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger (Ind.). Hoover is needed in the White House, declares The World, because—

"The fundamental rights and liberties of the American people are menaced today as they have never been before. On the one hand radicalism is pushing its theories to the very verge of anarchy, and on the other hand conservatism has joined hands with Bourbonism to destroy liberty in order to maintain the extreme individualistic theory of property rights.
Between these two greedy groups of fools and fanatics there is a great middle ground which is held by the vast majority of Americans and which they will continue to hold under competent leadership, but competent leadership there must be, and no man better embodies it than Herbert C. Hoover."

"Hoover is not a dark horse," says one pertinent paragrapher, "rather he is a nightmare to political aspirants on both sides of the political fence."

"May his specter penetrate to the darkest corners of the closets where kitchen-cabinet plot destiny," is the prayer of ex-Senator William Alden Smith's Grand Rapids Herald (Rep.).
The Baltimore Sun (Ind. Dem.), which speaks of Hoover as the "Great Neutral," predicts a race between the Democratic and Republican parties to see which can capture Hoover as a Presidential candidate, and says:
"Yet Hoover is no neutral when it comes to deeds. His platform is short, and consists, like the motto of the Prince of Wales, of only two words—"I Serve."

Dr. Frank Crane, whose editorials on almost everything but politics, first published in the New York Globe, are read throughout the world, said in an editorial recommending consideration of Hoover as a Presidential candidate, which appeared two weeks before The World's utterance: "We have tried Republicans and we have tried Democrats. Suppose we try just a man. We recommend Hoover simply because he has made good. He is not an orator; he is a man of action. And he is not looking for the place, which helps some." Hoover may yet find himself at the head of a commission for the relief of bankrupt political parties, predicts the Brooklyn Eagle (Ind. Dem.) and Gen. W. B. Haideman, Democratic National Committee man from Kentucky, is sure that the Democratic party will select Hoover as his veins, or a fortieth cousin who is a Democrat. "In Washington the politicians never speak of Hoover as a Presidential candidate," the Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post (Ind.) tells us, and the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger (Ind.) interprets this as "the biggest boost we have yet seen for him."

Scores of quotations similar to the above could be set forth, but the cold fact that political conventions, and not the people, select Presidential candidates, still remains. We are reminded by the Rochester Times-Union (Ind.) that "It is a favorite habit of some political leaders to favor the colorless candidate, who has aroused no antagonisms, to the more positive personality who has done much but who has antagonized in the doing." But we are also told that he has made hundreds of thousands of friends, and that a man of Hoover's amazing organizing genius could quickly organize another party and "poll an unprecedented independent vote."

"Whether his candidacy would satisfy those practical exigencies of which the party must take note in selecting its standard-bearer is another question," declares the Charles (S.

C.) New and Courier (Dem.), and while the Brooklyn Eagle (Ind.
Dem.) is sure there is "reason to believe that the Administration might view the Hoover 'boom' with a friendly eye," it tells us that "the strictly machine Democrats, who manage the party's national politics, look askance at Hoover and raise the question as to his politics."

Opposition from the Republican ranks is also forthcoming. Friends of Republican candidates already in running and ready to be brought forward are frankly skeptical of Hoover's chances as a Republican.
Among these who have favored the Hoover boom with a frosty stare are Senator Johnson's backers, some of whom are in New York. These gentlemen, recalling Hoover's earnest plea to "Unify" to help elect a Democratic Congress to help elect the President's policies, are said by the New York Times not to take the Hoover boom seriously, and to believe "that his only chance of being elected President is by running on the Democratic ticket." The Montgomery Advertiser (Dem.) suggests that "before any Hoover 'boom' gets under way in the Democratic party we suggest that the gentleman be invited to declare himself as a Democrat. The party should not commit itself to any candidate without first questioning him as to his convictions in respect to party measures."

Hoover appears to be the unenthusiastic recipient of friendly overtures from the Democratic ranks and smiles from Republican strongholds, albeit his political affiliations—if he has any—are little known. He cannot be accused justly of flitting with either party, in view of his repeated statement that he has no political aspirations. As a matter of fact, Hoover, at the present time, appears to be the great political enigma.
"It is significant," says the Chicago Tribune (Rep.), "that among those now talking of Hoover for President are personal friends and ardent supporters of President Wilson."

WIRELESS FINDS

Girl Long Missing.

Brother Sends Out Appeal By Air
And Gets Results—Thirteen Years' Search Ends.

TOLEDO, OHIO—Located by a wireless telegraph message sent from her brother's amateur plant, Cleo Archer, 17 years old, has reached her mother's home here after being lost for thirteen years.

Soon after Lester Archer recently asked all wireless men in a radius of 800 miles to seek his sister he received a radio that said the girl could be found on a farm near Rockford, O. Young Archer went to the farm of Ellis Williams and claimed his sister who was mysteriously removed from the Allen county children's home thirteen years ago and has been sought by her mother in many cities.

The reunion of mother and daughter occurred here last week and ended a search during which the mother, Mrs. Dorothy Archer, three times sought by court action to make the home authorities reveal the person who took her daughter. Each time the mother failed to get the information and at last gave up the search.

Lester and Cleo were placed in the home near Lima during domestic difficulty between their parents.
The girl, then four years old, had not been in the home a month before she was taken by persons whom the management would not identify.

For years the son, who is now 19, has helped his mother in the search for Cleo. Two weeks ago it occured to him to send out an appeal from his home wireless plant. He asked all operators in his radius to take up the appeal and spread it throughout the country.

TO AVOID THE "FLU."

First Of All, Make Sure Your Blood Is Red and Rich—in Fighting Trim SAFETY IN VIGOROUS BLOOD If You're Listless and Depressed Don't Delay a Minute—Get A Good Tonic.

If you get the influenza, see a doctor at once—but why get it? Isn't it worth while, instead, to take every precaution now, against getting it?

Probably the best and first thing to do is to make sure you are in good physical condition. During an epidemic, almost wherever you go you are exposed to influenza. As long as you are really well, the red corpuscles of your blood fight off and defeat disease germs. But when you feel all right except that you haven't much energy or enthusiasm, your blood is tired out too, and you are an easy victim.

Pepto-Mangan has become famous as a builder of rich, vigorous blood. It helps you when you are run down. It helps you avoid illness. Or, it helps you recover, if you realized your poor physical condition too late.

Physicians have been recommending Pepto-Mangan for years, in cases of anemia (bloodlessness). It is reliable, effective, and has a record of over twenty-five years' success. Take no chances with a run-down condition. Get Pepto-Mangan today. It is good health insurance.

Pepto-Mangan is sold in liquid and tablet form. There is no difference in medical value. Take either kind you prefer. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude". The full name should be on the package.

TRIAL OF GERMANS

By Default Urged.

Premier Millerand Insists Upon Execution of Extradition Clauses of Versailles Treaty.

PARIS.—Premier Millerand of France, who is attending the meeting of the Supreme Allied Council in London, is energetically insisting upon the execution of the extradition clauses of the Versailles treaty and urging if the Germans refuse to surrender men accused of war crimes that they may be tried by default, says the Echo De Paris.

Germany's proposal that she may try the alleged culprits is "no more likely to be adopted at London than in Paris," says the Petit Parisien, which adds the council will establish the culpability of former Emperor William and again demand his extradition from Holland. On the other hand, the Matin says it is informed that altho a firm note will be sent to Germany, the door will be left open for further discussions, consideration being taken of Premier Lloyd George's suggestions and the political situation in England.

Discussing the financial phases of the London conference, several newspapers say moral help and occasional material assistance will be given nations in serious straits. The Petit Parisien observes that England and France have reached an agreement on some problems relative to American exchange and recalls the French loan issued in September 1915, will fall due on Oct. 15 this year. Hope is expressed that some arrangements for making prompt payment may be made.

Agreement on the Turkish question is expected, according to some journals, which assert plans under consideration do not call for the expulsion of the Turks from Europe. It is said the French and Italian representatives are united on this point and that they have received influential support in British official circles.

Now All You Good Fellows, Come Fill Up Your Pipes

The Velvet tin is twice as big as shown here

If ever men are "Tom" and "Bill" to each other, it's when good pipes are a-going. If ever good pipes go their best, 'tis when Velvet's in the bowl.

For Velvet is a mighty friendly smoke. Kentucky Burley is the leaf that Nature made for pipes. Wholesome and hearty, honest as the day. And Velvet is that same good Burley leaf, brought to mellow middle age.

For eight long seasons Velvet "meditates" in wooden hogsheads, throwing off the rawness of "young" tobacco—truly "ageing in the wood." Out Velvet comes—cool, calm and generous—the tobacco Nature made good, kept good and made better.

Velvet's sweetness is the sweetness of good tobacco, not "put on" like "frosting" on a cake. Its mildness comes from natural ageing, not from having the life baked out. Its fragrance is true tobacco fragrance, not a perfume. And Velvet makes an A Number One cigarette. Roll one.

As good old Velvet Joe says:

"Fill yo' heart with friendly thoughts,
Yo' mouth with friendly smoke—
An' let the old world wag."

The Matter

With America.

Answering the pertinent question, "What's the matter with America these days?" the Fargo (S. D.) Forum, says:

Too many diamonds, not enough alarm clocks.

Too many silk shirts, not enough blue flannel ones.

Too many pointed-toes, and not enough square-toed ones.

Too many serge suits and not enough overalls.

Too many décolleté and not enough aprons.

Too many satin upholstered limousines and not enough cows.

Too many consumers and not enough producers.

Too many oil stocks and not enough saving accounts.

Too many envy of the results of hard work and too little desire to wealth and too little desire to emulate it.

Too many desiring short cuts to wealth and too few willing to pay the price.

Too many of the spirit of "get while the getting is good" and not enough of the old fashioned Christianity.

Too much discontent that vents itself in mere complaining and too little real efforts to remedy conditions.

Too much class consciousness and too little common democracy and love of humanity.

Inherited Characteristic.

As a general thing the kind of mother who enjoys a midnight supper downtown gets mad when the baby wants to eat as soon as she reaches home.—Dallas News.

The pasture problem in the coastal plain section of the South must be solved to bring about agricultural utilization of these lands. The problem has become increasingly important since the high prices of feeds are more and more forcing attention to the only cheap feed—pasture. The Bureau of plant industry has recently done a great deal of work along this line. The investigators have confirmed the bluegrass experiments, in which it was shown that heavy pasturing was much the best method

MT. HEBRON

Mrs. Harry Stone is a victim of flu.

The family of Mr. John Jackson are all improving this week.

Herbert the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Speed Sherrow is very ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Lizzie Spivey of Nicholasville was the guest of her son, Mr. Hobart Preston Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fles Lamm are very happy over the arrival of a fine baby boy on the 7th.

Mrs. Ernest Montgomery is at Berea with her daughter, Miss Ruth, who is ill with measles.

Messrs H. R. Ernest and Oakes Montgomery and Ed Grow were in Lexington the latter part of the week with tobacco.

Those here Monday for the burial of Mr. D. M. Montgomery were Mrs. Rebecca Holtzclaw of Lexington, Mrs. Etta Suttles of Harrodsburg, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, Mr. John J. Montgomery and Mrs. Luther Peyton of Lancaster.

The funeral services of Mr. D. M. Montgomery were conducted at the church here Monday at 1 P. M. by Rev. D. F. Sebastian, interment in the family burying ground near here. Much sympathy is extended the bereaved family.

A Fine Southern Pasture.

Both agriculturally and economically. Fortunately, say the specialists, facilities for experiments and demonstrations are wholly inadequate in attempting to work out a system of better handling of northern pastures. On the coastal plains of the South, unless the soils are much affected by drought, continue the experts, carpet grass supplemented with lespedeza makes excellent pasture. Golden crown grass is also excellent. Efforts are being made, with the aid of a new stripping machine, to place carpet grass seed on the market in adequate quantity. Several newly introduced grasses are promising as pasture possibilities.

SAFEGUARDING SHEEP FLOCK

Large Number of Animals Lost Each Year From Some Preventable Disorder.

Thousands upon thousands of sheep die each year from a great variety of preventable causes. The killer dog is not the chief cause of loss. He may cause perhaps 1 per cent of the deaths due to accidental causes, but the most serious losses are attributable to ignorance and carelessness upon the part of the owner or his shepherd. Among the chief causes of loss may be mentioned lack of shelter for lambing ewes and their newborn lambs. A sudden snow or rain storm coming at lambing time often finds ewes and lambs exposed, and many deaths result.

PASTURAGE CUTS FEED BILLS

Cost of Pork Production Can Be Reduced by Providing Suitable Pasture for Hogs.

Farmers can reduce the cost of pork production next year by providing a suitable pasture for their hogs, says W. B. Peters, of the national husbandry division, University farm. Most pasture grasses are rich in protein. The call for high grain rations is therefore less urgent a matter to be taken into consideration in these days of falling prices for hogs and pigs. Alfalfa and clover are best for growing pigs, but no matter how good a pasture is some grain must be fed if the hogs are to thrive and make profitable gains.

BULL OF CHANGEABLE MOODS

Wise Plan to Play Safe at All Times by Keeping Animal Completely Under Control.

The bull is of very changeable moods, and one never can tell when that mood is going to change. The only wise plan is to take no chances with his moods—play safe at all times by keeping him wholly under control, or where he cannot reach you.

PASTURE FOR GROWING PIGS

Clover, Rye, Rape, Sorghum or Anything Green Is Good—Something Else Is Needed.

Plenty of good pasture is very important in growing pigs. Clover, grass, rye, rape, sorghum—in fact almost anything green that pigs will eat is good for them while growing, but pasture alone will not make big-boned, stocky pigs.
